

The NZ Library & Information Management Journal (NZLIMJ) is published by LIANZA and focuses on library and information management issues relevant to New Zealand. NZLIMJ is not limited to a specific information sector or to articles of a particular type, but is intended to reflect the wide-ranging interests and needs of information professionals in New Zealand, including librarians, records managers, and archivists.

NZLIMJ is published online three times a year (February, July, October) and is hosted on the LIANZA website.

Journal Content

Most material in NZLIMJ falls into two categories:

- (1) peer-reviewed research-based articles containing original work relevant to libraries and information management in New Zealand;
- (2) feature articles or columns which may not be peer-reviewed, but which nevertheless reflect high standards of scholarship or reflection on issues of current interest to the New Zealand information community.

Contributions

NZLIMJ welcomes original contributions on any topic relevant to the library and information professions in New Zealand. Submissions must: include the author(s) name, affiliation and email address on a separate page; include an abstract of no more than 200 words; be no more than 6000 words in length, including references; and use the APA (name, date) referencing style with full bibliographic details in the list of references.

The Editor reserves the right to edit articles so that they conform to standard English and stylistic conventions for clear writing. Any other changes will be made in consultation with the author(s). If a submission is peer-reviewed, the author(s) must make all amendments and changes required by the reviewers and resubmit the revised contribution to the Editor. The final content of peer-reviewed articles will be agreed by the reviewers in consultation with the Editor.

For contributions which are not peer-reviewed, the Editor may make changes which remove jargon and make the article more easily understood by a general audience. If publication of the article may be considered potentially damaging to the reputation of LIANZA, or of an individual, the Editor reserves the right to edit the article or to refuse its publication.

Copyright remains with the author(s) at all times, though if the submission is accepted for publication it should not appear in any other publication for six months following its publication in NZLIMJ. LIANZA reserves the right to re-publish articles on its website or in other publications, giving credit to the author.

PLEASE SUBMIT ALL CONTRIBUTIONS ELECTRONICALLY AS .DOC OR .RTF FILES TO THE EDITOR:
